

Mrs. Svendsen's Kindergarten News

Reading – We will learn to distinguish beginning sounds again this week. Encourage your child to tell you what sound they hear at the beginning of words. We are focused on the sounds right now, as well as identifying lower and uppercase letters. Your child should be able to identify the sounds of m, n, f, v and b this week.

Math – We are working on counting to 100. Please practice at home if this is a concept your child is struggling with. Our focus numbers this week will be 3 and 4. Your child should be able to identify, write, and count objects to represent these numbers.

Science – This week we will learn about plants and their life cycle.

Handwriting – We have started writing our capital letters. This week we will learn N, M, and H. When helping your child practice writing, please remind them that capital letters should only be used at the beginning of a name with the rest of the letters being lowercase.

Grammar – We have learned all about nouns. This week we will learn about verbs, which are action words.

Book Logs – Book logs will begin this month. Please read to your child and return their log at the end of each month. Each child's goal is 15 books for the month.

Donations

We are currently in need of some empty toilet paper rolls and school appropriate magazines that we can cut up.

Snack Fee

Please make sure to pay $50 for your child's snack fee for the semester as soon as possible. This covers a snack and milk for your child each day. Thank you to those who have already taken care of this.

If you ever have any questions, comments, or concerns, please feel free to contact me at school or email me at asvendsen@avenuecityschool.org.
Have a wonderful weekend!
